One-Day International Webinar on Unsung Heroes in Colonial India

The freedom struggle of India had witnessed to enormous shedding of blood and sweat of millions of countrymen who were out to fight the British rule in order to break the shackles of subjugation. But more unfortunate is the fact that with the passage of time, many of those, who once sacrificed for the sake of freedom, are less discussed or even have been forgotten by the later generation and hence their struggle and contribution remained in dark forever. Along with the prominent figures like M.K. Gandhi, J.L. Nehru, Subhas Chandra Bose, V.B. Patel, B.R. Ambedkar, there were others also who contributed in their own ways in hastening the process of achieving independence of India from the yoke of the British Empire. On the occasion of the 75th year of India's Independence, let's make a humble effort to explore the lives and contributions of those 'lesser-heroes' only to understand the vastness as well as the intricate layers of the grand narrative of the freedom movement of India. We believe that this is the right occasion when we can re-explore those forgotten names and their contributions, lost to gloom, and assess their contributions towards achieving the Independence of India.

Historians have of late started to take plunge in exploring the contributions of hitherto lesser-known local leaders of many revolts, rebellions, and of course, of the freedom struggle, though many more works have to be done in the field. The contributions of all these unknown heroes are not only seen in the field of the freedom movement but also in the arenas of contemporary society, economy, politics, religion, science and technology, medicine etc. where their contributions were substantial. The aim of the proposed webinar on 'Unsung Heroes in Colonial India' is to discuss about all those people who were lost into oblivion; and ensure their right place in the mainstream of history of India.
